

NETWORK ACCESS SYSTEM AND ASSOCIATED METHODS

ABSTRACT

An enhanced network access system and associated methods are provided. In one example, a method for providing network access includes: providing a first access point for a first computing device; accessing a first router through the first access point; connecting the first computing device to a first network; providing a second access point for a second computing device; accessing a second router through the second access point; and connecting the second computing device to a second network.